■ Good plan ... Stephen Degiovanni and Olivia Maragna at Aspire Retire.

Firm aspires to help

By JACINTA BOHLSCHIED

FINANCIAL planning firm Aspire Retire is a finalist in the professional services category of this year's City South News Business Achiever Awards.

Co-owner and financial services adviser Olivia Maragna said she believed the business was nominated due to the client services they provided.

"We work in partnership with them and we are constantly adding value to the client's situation," she said.

She said the Stones Corner business set itself apart from other financial planning firms by its relationship with many local clients.

"We are independently owned and have their business in mind," she said.

"That's why a lot of people love to come and see us."

Mrs Maragna said the success of the business was also due to its fee-for-service model, commission free services and the different financial strategies it provided.

Congratulations to all the Finalists in the City South News Business Achievers for 2008
